BIRTHS, DEATHS AND MARRIAGES.

The total return from the registrar's office for the month of May are as follows:

Births, 6.
Deaths, 8.
Marriages, 1.

LOCAL.

—The Teachers' Institute will be conducted at Edmonton on Friday, the 6th inst., and the following day.

—John Borwick has sold out his store business, at Andrew, to George Wooley, who has recently been granted a liquor license.

—Brackman-Ker Co., and the Dominion Elevator Co., are shipping grain at Wetaskiwin under government inspection.

—Contractor McCrimmon has moved his railway construction outfit from the Mill Creek flats, ready for transportation.

—The Presbyterian picnic that was to have been held at the Sturgeon on June 4th, has been postponed indefinitely owing to the wet weather.

—Corp. John Smith and Pte. Albert Edwards of Strathcona's Horse, left on Tuesday last for Point Levis, Que., to join the Canadian military contingent for the corporation.

—L. T. McKim, representing the home correspondence, Springfield, Mass., arrived Thursday night in town. He intends remaining a month, entering names for correspondence courses.

—The Conrad-Price Cattle company brought in the fore part of the week about 2000 head of Mexican cattle from the south. Says the Medicine Hat News, which they are placing on their range on the Saskatchewan.

—Mr. L. G. Picard came in from Saddle Lake yesterday afternoon, bringing the body of his deceased wife, who died on the 28th ult. The roads are in so bad a state that the journey took four days. All bridges over creeks and streams are washed out.

—The land deal for jail purposes has been completed to-day. The greater portion of the purchase price has been paid to Mr. K. McDonald, the balance to be paid July 1. A cheque has also been received for that portion due to Mr. McDougall.

—The mail, which left Calgary on Friday, did not reach Strathcona until Saturday evening, though some lady passengers were able to walk to Strathcona on Friday evening from the point of the washout, some three and a half miles south of the depot. The mail due at Edmonton on Saturday evening arrived at Strathcona between 4 and 5 p. m. on Sunday.

—J. W. Shera, M. L. A., came up from Fort Saskatchewan on Saturday. Mr. Shera states that there is not a single bridge remaining between the Fort and Edmonton on the south side trail. The water was so high in some of the creeks, that it was necessary to swim the horses. It took seven hours of driving through mud to reach town.

—The Strathcona board of trade sent a despatch on Saturday last to the commissioner of public works at Regina notifying him that many bridges in the district are washed out and asking for immediate action. The department wired back that Government Engineer Driscoll was instructed to look over the situation at once and see exactly what was to be done.

—Owing to the almost impassable condition of the road between Edmonton and Strathcona, the parties interested in the road, between the two points, have decided to repair the road at their own expense. The Edmonton Carriage Co., Campbell, Reed, Brackman-Ker Co., Carter and others arranged to have their teams at work to-day on repairs and, if possible, put the road in a passable condition.

—On Saturday there was seen a tin pipe, stretching across the sidewalk in front of the store, which will shortly be occupied by J. Diamond, a wholesale liquor merchant, of this city. This pipe, entitled to a steady stream of water. On entering the store a man was steadily at work pumping the water from the cellar. "Five feet in the hole," when I started, said the man, and he had an all day job, by all appearances.

—Friday's train, on reaching to within three and a half miles of Strathcona, was compelled to return to Leduc, owing to condition of the track caused by the rain of Thursday night and Friday. A number of passengers, amongst whom were several ladies, walked to Strathcona. A hand car was sent from the depot to meet the ladies who doubtless were pleased to be relieved of the necessity of completing the disagreeable undertaking.

—On Saturday afternoon a large hole suddenly appeared on McCuileys hill, on the south side of the road about half way down. On examination it appeared that this was the result of a cave-in caused by some underground change connected with an old air shaft, and formerly a part of one of the mines. Immediate steps were taken by the municipal authorities for re-filling, so that no inconvenience or accident could result from this sudden freak.

—A late Territorial Gazette announces the appointment of Mr. Thos. Bennett, of Strathcona, Messrs. Chas. H. Wade, of Edmonton, W. Fletcher Brodin, of Lesser Slave Lake, and Edmond Naylor, of Fort Resolution, as justices of the peace, Basil C. d'Easum, of Fort Saskatchewan, Joseph E. Laurence, of Edmonton and R. T. Telford, of Leduc, have received the appointment of notary public. Hope Hanson, of Strathcona, is now an issuer of marriage licenses.

—The membership roll of the Edmonton Rifle Association, which was forwarded a short time ago to Winnipeg, together with a requisition for rifles and ammunition, was returned by Major Gardner, the D. O. C., asking for a certificate signed by the captain and secretary guaranteeing that the number of members on the roll are actually members of the association. To date eighty-seven able bodied citizens have joined, it is now desired that the total be raised to one hundred before the roll is returned to Winnipeg as that number would entitle the boys to twenty-five rifles and ten thousand rounds of ammunition. It may be estimated that the work on the range is progressing, though somewhat retarded by the heavy rains which are a drawback and hindrance to this as well as to every other enterprise in the district.

TOWN ELECTRIC LIGHT.

A contract was signed on Saturday, between the Canadian General Electric Co., of Toronto, and the town of Edmonton, for the supply of a dynamo and accessories complete for the lighting plant. The terms of the agreement call for 50 per cent of the price upon shipment and balance 30 days after dynamo is successfully started. In the event of any delay due to no fault of the company, the final payment will come due 60 days from time corporation has been notified that the dynamo is ready to operate. The company will furnish the above plant and install it ready for use for the sum of $4,000.

—The Brackman-Ker Co., expect to have their contract to ship 4,000 boxes (235,000 bushels) of oats to the British war department completed by the end of this week.

EDMONTON BULLETIN JUNE 2nd, 1902

SERIOUS FRESHET.

The exceptionally heavy rains of Thursday night and Friday forenoon have resulted in washing away a very large proportion of the small bridges in the district surrounding Edmonton, so that freight traffic is interrupted in every direction. The previous wet weather had filled the sloughs and raised the creeks, but only a limited amount of damage had been done. The heavy down pour of Thursday night, although not so very heavy in itself, was the last straw necessary to change danger into disaster as far as bridges across the streams was concerned. The reports on Saturday morning were that every bridge was gone on the south trail between Edmonton and Fort Saskatchewan, that the Black Mud had been swept clear of bridges, that the Landing trail was in much the same condition, and that where an occasional bridge remained standing the water was all around it, so that approach was either difficult or impossible. In such cases there is every probability that when the water subsides the approaches will have to be renewed and the supports strengthened. No such universal high water has been seen in the district for the past twenty years, if indeed ever.

So far the Saskatchewan has not risen at all in proportion to the rise in the small creeks putting into it. Those who were here will remember that the great rise which occurred in August some years ago was not accompanied by any serious rise in the tributary streams in this district. The reason that the river does not rise with the local rainfall is that the controlling source of its supply is in the Rocky Mountains, and the water which reaches it during its course is not sufficient to seriously affect its volume. The freshet here differs from that which washed away the bridges in Southern Alberta in that there it was not the local rains but the freshet from the mountains that did the damage.

It does not matter now what the cause was, or from what source the damage came. The condition is that there has been a very heavy destruction of bridges in every part of Alberta from the international boundary to the Athabasca Landing. That travel is interrupted in all directions, that those bridges must be replaced at once or damage far in excess of the cost of the bridges will be done to the district and the progress of the country correspondingly retarded. The local government is responsible for keeping the routes of travel open, but that government is in no position financially to meet the present emergency. The needs of ordinary expenditure on schools and roads had already increased beyond the ordinary revenue and even beyond the very considerable increases granted at the late session of parliament. Besides the bridges which must be replaced costly repairs to the roads will also be needed, and at the same time the ordinary demands arising from the rapid extension of settlement were never as great.

If the present difficulty is to be adequately met it will have to be by a special grant from the federal government. Some of the large bridges in Southern Alberta are federal works and in any case will have to be replaced by the federal authorities, but beyond that the damage to roads and bridges under the special charge of the local government has been so great and no unprecedented that funds will have to be provided by the only authority able to provide them. An estimate of the amount of damage should be made at once, so that steps may be taken to repair it.

Drought in Australia

London, May 27.—Cabling from Sydney, N. S. W., the correspondent there of the Daily Mail gives an account of the terrible drought, from which as a climax to seven dry years, Australia is now suffering. The correspondent says the losses in stock in Australia since 1899 amount to $15,000,000, unemployed men are drifting into the cities by the thousands and the state governments are providing them with relief. The only districts that have escaped are the northern rivers districts of New South Wales and parts of the Riverina district.

The situation has been aggravated by the federal duties on fodder, which prevent its importation. Communication in the interior has been paralyzed as the waterways are un navigable. Owing to the price of fodder the farmers have given up hauling of mail in Queensland and the sheep are dying by the millions, continues the correspondent, and even the rabbits are starving. A common method of treating exhausted horses is to slit the animal's palate with a knife, the horse is revived by swallowing his own blood. Numbers of "sun-downers" and "swagmen" have been found dead by the wayside. The governments are doing everything possible to alleviate these conditions, but meteorologists despair of an early change in the weather conditions.

ONTARIO ELECTIONS.

The Ross government of Ontario has been sustained by a narrow majority, of about the same number as at the previous general election. The result was scarcely expected to be so favorable. It is true that Premier Ross is admitted to be one of the most able men in Canadian public life, and that his public and private record is of the very best. It is also true that although the leader of the opposition is clever and above reproach he did not please before the people any definite policy opposed to that of the Ross government. The contest was entirely of a personal and party nature and did not involve questions of principle to any degree. But the government to the leadership of which Mr. Ross succeeded had been in power for thirty years and the cry went up that it was time for a change. On its face this would not seem to be a very strong policy upon which to appeal to an intelligent electorate. And it was not, as the result showed still it had an element of strength. A long lease of power naturally tends to the growth of abuses which having grown up amongst friends of the government and party are hard to rectify while that government or party remains in power. Grievances, real or fancied, are bound to accumulate against the best managed government, and it seems as though it could only be a matter of time when the accumulation must reach a sufficient pitch to overthrow any government. Besides the cry is of such an indefinite nature that it cannot be met and overthrown. It puts the government on the defensive and yet they can only beat the wind. That the Ross government survived under such circumstances is the best evidence that it was worthy of the continued confidence of the province in preference to their opponents.

Another feature that told heavily against the Ross government was the great part played by federal party politics in the contest. Although there is no proper connection between federal and provincial politics it is the custom in the eastern provinces to link them together, and to run provincial elections on federal party lines. The Ross government was of the liberal party in federal politics and Ontario was conservative by a considerable majority in the federal house. Evidently so the opposition argued, all that was necessary was to draw federal party lines tightly enough and the defeat of the Ross government was assured. To such an extent was that idea carried that the early adjournment of the federal parliament was chiefly due to the desire of the conservative majority from Ontario in that house to get into the provincial elections in the hope of carrying their voters with them against the Ross government. That they were not successful shows, as has often been shown before, that the supposition that the electors of Canada do not think for themselves is largely a mistake. When Ontario, where party politics run higher than anywhere else in Canada, and which elects a conservative majority of ten to the house of commons gives the liberals local government a majority of six, in the face of the strongest possible effort being made to keep the people within their party lines, it proves that something more than an appeal to party allegiance is necessary to carry conviction to the mind of the Canadian voter. It is more than likely that the very strength of the effort to secure the defeat of the Ross government without offering an alternate policy, had an effect the opposite of that intended, and that Mr. Ross owes his return to power as much to the unreasoning bitterness of his opponents as to the merits of his own policy or administration.

The Canadian Arch.

London, May 27.—There have been six thousand applications for six hundred seats allotted to Lord Strathcona on the colonial stand by the Imperial authorities. If these applications are genuine, it is thought that a splendid advertisement might be secured for Canada. The Dominion government would erect a special stand exclusively for Canadians.

The Canadian route outposts have granted Canada a fine position at Whitehall, near Westminster Abbey, for which will be erected an arch, 56 feet high and 60 feet wide, surmounted by the words, "Canada, Future Granary of Empire." These words will be electrically illuminated at night.

Governor Ross Sails for Yukon.

Vancouver, May 27.—Governor Ross, of Yukon, sails for Dawson this evening on the Vancouver steamer Princess May. Word having been received that the Yukon river is open to Dawson through tickets are now being issued from here. Mr. McMichael, chief inspector of the Dominion customs, is here en route to Dawson.

Struck by Lightning

Owen Sound, May 23.—During a heavy thunderstorm, which passed over the town at noon yesterday, the steamer Majestic, lying at the C.P.R. wharf, was struck by lightning, which tore about 12 feet off the top of the foremast, but inflicted no further damage. A pile of metal checks in the time-keeper's office were scattered about the room by the shock.

Death of Lord Pauncefoot.

Washington, May 21.—Immediately upon being notified of the death of Lord Pauncefoot, Secretary Hay went to the White House and after a short conference with the president, proceeded directly to the British embassy, where he made a formal call of condolence as the personal representative of the president, preliminary to the call which the president himself was to make later in the day. Then returning to the state department Secretary Hay despatched the following cablegram:

"Department of state, May 24, 1902. To the Marquis of Lansdowne, London;

"Permit me to express my deep sympathy and sorrow at the death of Lord Pauncefoot. His Majesty's government have lost a most able and faithful servant and this country a valued friend." Signed, John Hay.

The secretary has fully expressed his sentiments in this cablegram, so all that he cared to say in addition was, "He was not only a man of very high personal merit, but he was a good friend of ours." President Roosevelt drove to the British embassy at one o'clock as soon as he had become apprised of the death of Lord Pauncefoot. He was accompanied by the members of the household. The president expressed his deepest sympathy at the death of the ambassador, not only on behalf of the government but also for the people of the country to whom Lord Pauncefoot had become endeared in many ways. Secretary Hay and other members of the cabinet also called at the embassy, leaving their cards and expressing their condolence. The foreign ambassadors and ministers also left their cards.

Washington, May 25.—With the exception of a few details the arrangements for the funeral of the remains of Lord Pauncefoot, the British ambassador who died yesterday morning, are now complete. Lord Pauncefoot today signed his approval of the arrangements made yesterday by which services are to be held Wednesday at noon in St. John's Episcopal church, after which the body is to be temporarily deposited in a receiving vault at Rock Creek cemetery. A military escort will be provided by the war department to attend the funeral which will be of a state character. A large number of messages of condolence from all over the world were received at the embassy today but they were not made public.

Just how high his talents were appreciated may be understood from the fact that although he reached the retiring age, 70 years, three years ago he was induced to remain in the diplomatic service. The British government being anxious to keep him while so many important matters affecting the relations of Great Britain and the United States were pending. Lord Pauncefoot liked Washington and was not sorry to be asked to stay. It was his desire it has been said to die in diplomatic harness, a wish now fulfilled. He wished to remain in this capital until the famous Hay-Pauncefoot isthmian canal treaty had been perfected. Under the McKinley administration Lord Pauncefoot obtained his highest official and personal popularity. He was regarded as a firm friend of this government in the war with Spain, and the recent attempt to show that he had conducted a useful and important mission to the United States was a tribute to his ability. He was regarded as a firm friend of this government in the war with Spain, and the recent attempt to show that he had conducted a useful and important mission to the United States was a tribute to his ability.

Lord Pauncefoot, who was Sir John Pauncefoot, came here in 1889, as the successor of Lord Skelville-West, the British minister recalled on complaint of Secretary of State Bayard, because he advised the British subjects in California to vote or Grover Cleveland. At that time the strained relations between Great Britain and the United States over Lord Skelville-West's interference in American politics still existed, and Lord Pauncefoot had the delicate task before him to win the personal confidence of the administration and the people. He succeeded so well that in a short time he became extremely popular socially and officially, despite the fact that he was recognized as one of the keenest diplomats with whom the officers of the state department were ever brought into relation.

Fierce Gale in Western Ontario.

Free Press. Toronto, May 22.—One of the fiercest gales in years swept over Toronto this evening, shortly after six o'clock. It lasted only a few minutes but during that time many trees were broken, telegraph wires torn down, signs, carriages and demolished, fences leveled and in one instance Erskine church tower was overturned, while the breaking of window glass, even plate, were numerous. A fence was blown against a boy, breaking his leg. The wind blew west by southwest and the rain fell in torrents. Very little electricity was noticeable. Hummocks and other places in this part of Ontario suffered similarly and much damage was done.

Fenelon Falls, Ont., May 22.—During the thunder storm which passed over this village about 6:30 this evening, little Jennie and James Smith, aged about fourteen and ten years respectively, children of Thomas Smith of this place, were killed. The girl was going out to a neighbor's for milk, and as she went out her little brother followed about three yards behind her. Lightning struck and killed both instantly within three yards of the door.

Floods at Lethbridge.

Lethbridge, N. W. T., May 21.—Although the storm is abating somewhat there is no traffic on the Crow's Nest road west of here. The bridge over Hot Hole Creek went out yesterday, and the government bridge over the Belly river, costing thirty thousand dollars, is seriously threatened. The waterworks and pumping station are flooded, cutting off the supply for a week.

A rescue party brought away Kenneth McDonald's family from a house in the river bottom which is submerged.

The track in some of the cuttings south of here is covered with from three to twelve feet of mud.

Medicine Hat Freshet.

Medicine Hat, May 24.—Water in the river has slowly receded since Friday night. Little damage has been done except the flooding of several houses.

An Important Conference.

The conference of the Canadian boards of trade, which is to be held in Toronto early in June, with a view to concentrating the commercial opinion of the country on the questions which the colonial conference will discuss after the coronation in London, will be one of the most important gatherings ever assembled in the Dominion. This is a formative period in trade as well as other matters, and lines are being laid now which will govern the commercial development of the future for many years. The colonial conference will discuss the trade policy of the empire, whatever else it may leave unconsidered, and it is exceedingly timely for the trade experts of the Dominion to get together on the eve of the departure of the premier and formulate their ripest and latest opinion on the subject.

The discussions and conclusions of the conference cannot fail to be of the utmost importance to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the other Canadian delegates; for it is not to be expected that a body of busy ministers shall be as well versed in the details of trade as the men who make it a life-study. And they should not be backward in giving the reasons for the opinions they advance. Our ministers cannot, when such a conference is called, be certain to clash, but they must be prepared to take the dictum even of a conference, but must be generously provided with the reasons which have led to the findings of the majority.

A great deal will depend upon the gentlemen who are honored with election as delegates to this most momentous gathering may well prepare themselves carefully and industriously for their part in the discussion. It is not an uncommon experience for a good cause to fail for lack of adequate advocacy, and this is especially likely to occur where a gathering of experts are engaged in practically preparing a case for non-expert representatives. The conference adopts should be placed at once at the disposal of the ministers; for, while they will, of course, take precisely whatever attitude may please them, preserving the utmost independence, they will not be above knowing to the fullest extent the circumstances which have led to the conference to its conclusions.

The proceedings should be informative rather than mandatory. No one wants the boards of trade to legislate for the country, or to assume any responsibility for the government; but every one will be delighted if they will place their vast wealth of information before the government and the country alike. There are other interests in the Dominion—possibly contrary interests; and they will be heard from. It will be the premier's duty to hear all and judge between them. But, for this very reason, it is the more important that the trade experts of our leading cities should say with clearness and cogency what they think, and why they think it. Possibly the debates of the conference will be of more value than the resolutions.

Ranchers Coming Northward.

A large herd of splendid cattle arrived in the city on Friday morning having come all the way from Kansas. They were splendid animals, all rising to the year old, of the Hereford variety, which are rapidly coming to the front as a good range breed.

They numbered 1000 animals all told and were in splendid shape, looking as plump and well conditioned as if they had come off a fine grass pasture instead of having just been unloading from the back of a thousand miles. They belong to a Mr. Reid, who has purchased a fine stretch of country in the vicinity of Olds. The ranch is selected in the best part of the country, and comprises 24 sections. The cattle have been spending their time on the exhibition grounds waiting for a chance to be taken north. It is pleasing to note that stockers are being brought here from the far away states, the American ranchers apparently being of the opinion that Alberta is a better country for ranching than those states where the industry has hitherto been paramount. With this consignment of stock we are out 40 well bred bulls.

Port Arthur Boom.

Some years ago a railway magnate made the statement that grass would grow over the main street of Port Arthur, and his statement came practically true. The intention of magnates of another railway is to make this place one of the busy towns and the green grass will be trodden under the feet of a mighty traffic. The Canadian Northern has everything in readiness for the erection of its proposed new elevator with a capacity of 1,000,000 bushels. This, with the present elevator will give a storing capacity of practically 3,000,000 bushels.

An army of men is busy building the C.N.R. docks, and the railway track is already laid right up to the docks. Plans are also practically completed for a splendid new depot, and rumor has it that a magnificent hotel will be built in connection with the station. Plans are also being prepared for new stations to be built at Portage la Prairie and Neepawa during the present season.

Britain is taking no chances in case the Boers do not come to terms. The war office ordered six battalions of Yeomanry for South Africa, they were to sail last Saturday.

Censorship has allowed the following to pass from Pretoria, under today's date:

"It is considered doubtful here whether peace will be concluded. The basis of terms is being discussed by the Boers. The Free State representatives are believed to be in most opposition to British conditions. Ex-President Steyn, who leads the opposition, is more extreme than DeWet, who now represents the more pacific than formerly, but both of them, with West, Muller, Hertzog, and Collier, are against peace. They are decidedly and strongly and render doubtless the conclusion of peace doubtful. Those who convened the conference, consisting of members of the old Transvaal government, undoubtedly favor peace, while the Free State desire independence as a basis of any terms."

Inside circles, in political and financial London, concern in the foregoing, adding that Cape Colony, where the only fighting has been done recently, will continue to be the scene of war whatever happens at the conference, and the Boer leaders will direct their cause from there even if they withdraw from north of the Vaal.

SPRUCE GROVE

Well Mr. Editor, I suppose some items from this paper of the district, would not be a miss, especially as since election day, things seem to be rather upside down, you come across a person occasionally, with a comical look on his countenance, and it really does make you feel sorry for him, if he gets the chance again I think, he would try and do justice to himself. We will hope so anyway, for the good of the district.

Roads were just commencing to get into decent shape with the few fine days we had, when the bottom fell out again, and here we are, practically worse off than ever, as the late very heavy rains has left the roads in a very bad state.

Crops do not seem to be doing as well as they might. The weather has been somewhat cold and wet all spring and not at all favorable to growth of crops, however, we have had just such weather before and still at harvest time, we found that the crop did not turn out so bad after all.

There are prospects of considerable building going on this summer throughout the settlement, if farmers can get their shingles, &c., from town.

Phillip Umbach has a frame stable and granary under way.

J. J. Doolan, formerly of St. Albert, is erecting a building on the corner of D. Brox's farm, close to the store, to be used as a hotel. At present there is at the corner—a store, blacksmith shop, shoemaker, a Roman Catholic church, and the hotel, (when it gets started). Who says there is no enterprise in our farmers out here?

We were sorry to hear that the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. William Lang had died. We extend our sympathy to them in their trouble.

Miss Empey, of east Stony Plain, was the guest of Mrs. A. Ziegler and Mrs. Jos. Shder, for a few days lately.

Miss A. Lawrence, our teacher here, has taken a week's holidays and gone to Wetaskwin on a visit.

Manitoba Markets

Commercial, May 17.

The Manitoba wheat market has been quiet during the week, and trade moves along in a steady way without much demand for wheat, or pressure on the part of the holders to sell it. Wheat for immediate or early delivery is easier to sell than for more distant delivery. Last week prices left off at 74-4c for 1 northern and 72-3c for 2 northern in store Fort William spot or May delivery, and by Tuesday afternoon they had advanced under the influence of stronger outside markets to 76-1c and 74-1c, but since then they have declined 1c and at the close of business yesterday the best prices obtainable were 75-1c 1 northern and 73-1c 2 northern spot or May delivery in store Fort William. 1 hard is worth 78-1c, June delivery is not wanted, but will sell at same figures as for May delivery.

OATS—The market has advanced 1c per bushel this week owing to improved demand. We quote: No. 2 white oats, Fort William, 41c per bushel; No. 1 white, in carlots on track, Winnipeg, per bushel, 45c; No. 2 white, 41c to 42c; feed grades, 38c to 39c; seed oats, 50c. At country points farmers are getting 29c to 31c for No. 2 white oats. Street oats are not offering.
